To Whom It May Concern:

Lynn Novitsky of LAN Communications recently worked with our firm assisting us in auditing our telecommunications invoices. As a result of her work, she was able to find items where we were being overcharged for services. The financial savings from her audit work is an ongoing benefit.

Additionally, she provided complete management in establishing new services for our recently opened store. Her working relationship with the local telephone service provider made the process trouble free. As communications systems and choices have expanded and gotten more complicated, it was a relief to have some capable guiding the decision process. Her experience and knowledge based research was apparent in refining and advising us on choices suitable for the level of our business.

Her commitment to client service is ever present and we are very comfortable recommending her services to any business interested in saving money on telecommunications or setting up new service. Lynn's professional attitude working with the telephone service provider added to our confidence in her contribution to our business.
